

CALLmi: Where are we going?

International Symposium on current and future trends in CALL, MALL and VLE

23-24 May 2019 - Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore, Milan Campus
Room Mons. Colombo (G.023), 8.45-18.30

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Prof. Agnes Kukulska-Hulme, Open University, UK

Prof. Michael Thomas, University of Central Lancashire, UK

- Technology-mediated language learning: Computer-Assisted and Mobile-Assisted Language Learning, and Virtual Learning Environments
- Effective technology integration in language teaching and learning
- Intercultural and pedagogical opportunities, challenges and limitations provided by technologies, virtual environments and mobile devices
- Virtual learning environments within the field of higher education internationalisation (IHE)

Open to researchers, doctoral students, educators, teachers and teacher trainers

Note for teachers

In line with current legislation, this seminar falls within those training and refresher courses for teachers carried out by universities which are automatically recognised by school management bodies, and which allow teachers of all levels and categories to access the legal and economic benefits arising from taking part in such training activities. (Art. 64, CCNL 2007.)

Registration required – no fee

Further information:

› centridiricerca.unicatt.it/chei-9702.html.content

Registration:

› convegni.unicatt.it/call-mi-home-register-1213

